LANDSOUTH CONSTRUCTION HONORS TEAM MEMBERS AT ANNUAL COMPANY AWARDS CEREMONY

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (April 2, 2010) – LandSouth Construction, a Jacksonville-based general contractor, recently honored several of its team members at the company’s annual awards ceremony.

Quality assurance manager Peter Helton received the Diamond Award, which is given to an employee who is selected by their peers for outstanding work and who exemplifies the core values of LandSouth Construction throughout the year. Tom Field, superintendent of the company’s Bella Apartment Homes project in Kissimmee, Fla., received the Leadership Award for demonstrating outstanding leadership qualities on the jobsite and for mentoring other company employees. Office manager and safety coordinator, Kim Johnston, was honored with a Length of Service award after celebrating her 10-year anniversary with LandSouth Construction.

“I am honored to work along side such remarkable people and am humbled that they have dedicated their professional careers to our company,” said president and CEO of LandSouth Construction James Pyle, who hosted the awards ceremony. “Each day that they go out to the jobsite or come into the office, they are representing our company in the finest light and for that I am grateful.”
